

ADHD Medication Shortage

Information: Easy-Read

ADHD medication

You might be taking medication to help you think and to do your daily tasks.

What's the problem?

There has been a problem getting enough of this medication into pharmacies. You might find it hard to get enough tablets.

Why is this happening?

More people need the medication, and the people that make them have changed.

How long will the problem last?

At least until November 2024

What should I do?

- Speak to your pharmacist and GP if you are taking medication for ADHD.
- Order your medication 2 weeks before you run out.
- If you have problems getting the medication, speak to your specialist team.
